ACROSS THE PO VALLEY: Wargaming the Late French Revolutionary War

Scenario book covers the lesser-known campaign where the successes of Napoleon Bonaparte in his brilliant 1796-1797 campaign were wiped out in 1799 by an equally brilliant campaign led by the Russian hero Marshal Alexander Suvorov. Twelve battle scenarios, ranging from northeast to southwest northern Italy, tracks the sweep of the Russian-Austrian coalition against their French opponents. Each scenario comes with a detailed battle-eld map, a complete order of battle with unit labels, and special rules and content you need to set up and play each game. £29.50

AGAINST THE ODDS 57 : A CROWNING GLORY: AUSTERLITZ 1805

Hex board wargame. Low complexity, Low solitaire. 4 hours playing time, 216 counters This two-player grand-tactical simulation by Ty Bomba presents the battle generally considered to have been Napoleon's greatest victory. Both players have the opportunity to attack and defend, but the main burden of the offensive resides with the French player. His opponent, the Allied player, commands the Austrian and Russian units. Each hexagon on the map represents 600 yards (~550 meters) from side to opposite side. The infantry and cavalry units represent both brigades and divisions on each side. Each full turn represents one hour of 'real time.' £42.50

BEFORE WATERLOO -1814 expansion

Expansion to the Against the Odds magazine game. Before Waterloo is a two-player strategic level simulation of the Napoleonic Campaign of 1814, extending the play of Beyond Waterloo with two campaigns. One, "La Patrie en Danger!", runs from January through April, 1814. Napoleon has been sent reeling from his second massive defeat in 2 years at Leipzig and must defend France from a now overwhelming coalition. The Allies must defeat Napoleon and impose a new civil government on France. The French must avoid that outcome. The other campaign, "Napoleon's Dream", from November 1813 through April 1814, represents an optimal French imperial campaign. £21.50

ET SANS RESULTANT! Napoleonic rules- - back in stock

Et sans resultat! Series 3 is the newest edition of the perspective based operational-level Napoleonic wargame. Three Books in One The Age of Napoleon will bring introduce players to the personalities, events, factions, and military terminology of the Napoleonic Age. Planning for War will help players plan out their own games, build their own Armies, Forces, and Formations, and 13 Starter Scenarios allow players to jump into an archetypical battle of nearly any part of the Napoleonic Age. £30.00

FATE OF BATTLE: Look Sarge, no charts NAPOLEONIC rules

Bazed on the popular and clever Look, Sarge, No Charts: WWII system. These rules are designed to replicate large battles in the Napoleonic Wars (and other horse-and-musket periods). In order to facilitate this span of control, streamlined mechanics remove the charts so players can fight the battle, not the rules. Each player controls a division, with the basic unit the battalion. Rules goals: Making large formations do what you want is hard, realism is gained through simple mechanics, lack of predictability will stress the players' decision making, and keep skirmish modifiers out of the tactical game. £29.50

Ivan Caceres - SANTA CRUZ 1797 - Bellica 3rd Generation

A small card driven block game about the night battle of Santa Cruz de Tenerife in 1797. The game pitches the British player, with superior numbers and quality, against the Spanish defenders that try to contain the British landings and avoid losing the main fortifications and vital points in the city. The game is tense, with a lot of interaction that depicts British naval movement, Spanish coastal batteries fire and plenty of action in a confused, see-saw battle that highlighted night street fighting. £52.50

LA BATAILLE de WAVRE (2nd edition)

Expansion for Ligny or Mont St Jean (deluxe) by Clash of Arms. La Bataille de Wavre simulates the often ignored exploits of the right wing of L'Armee du Nord, on the fateful day of Waterloo, June 18, 1815, and the field which it won the next day (completely oblivious to the enormity of Napoleon's defeat.) It can be played independently of the other games in the Waterloo cycle or linked and simultaneously resolved with La Bataille de Mont St. Jean. As the French player you command the Corps of Generals Vandamme and Gerard. As the Prussian player you have General Thielemann's unenviable task of standing between 33 thousand fanatically loyal Frenchmen and their Emperor. £45.00

LA VENDEE 1793: AGAINST THE ODDS ANNUAL

This area movement game depicts the first Royalist rising in 1793, centering on the "White" player's attempt to capture and hold Republican fortresses. If all goes well the English may enter the fray. Meanwhile "Blue" Republican armies attempt to overwhelm their weaker foe and implement a scorched-earth policy while partisans harry their every move. Event cards present both sides with opportunities and challenges. £47.00

NAPOLEON'S END: CAMPAIGN IN FRANCE Part III

Zucker, K. Boxed hex boardgame. Mormant; Montereau; Arcis-sur-arbe; Frere Champenoise The first of the four battles occurred on the 17th and 18th of February: Mormant took place 3 days after the Battle of Vauchamps, covered in "La Patrie en Danger"; The last two battles were fought in late-March: Arcis followed 8 days after Reims, from "Napoleon Retreats." With all three games you can contemplate a 12-battle Grand Campaign. Here you have a series-first, a 40" map (which extends La Patrie East map with the potential for a 9" long map). The Mormant and Montereau maps combine to make one 44 x 34" map. The Arcis map is square-on with Arcis dead center and the Aube dividing the map in half. All four quadrants have troops moving through. Arcis was perhaps the Emperor's worst-planned mistake. £135.00
